

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET

SALE OF A BUSINESS BUILDING IN THE JEWELRY DISTRICT.

The Estate of J. H. Smith, the "Wealthy Policeman," sells a $100,000 Elevator Plant in Central Park West - A $325,000 Loft Building Also Changes Hands.

A fair amount of business was done in the brokerage branch of the market yesterday. It was well distributed and included several deals in mercantile buildings and in private houses in good neighborhoods. Among the properties that changed ownership was the old-fashioned five-story building at 26 John street, in the jewelry district, and a new ten-story loft structure at 57 and 59 East Eleventh street. The estate of J. H. Smith, the wealthy policeman who died a few years ago, disposed of an elevator plant at Central Park West and 108th street that had been held at $100,000. Plans were filed for a six-story bank and post office building in the Williamsburg Bridge plaza and for a seven-story warehouse in West Fifteenth street.
